IPSITA, AND AIE'S INCEPTION

Ipsita was my first and only friend, before Aditi bit me and we became friends. Aditi did not bite Ipsita, but they still became friends. Eventually, after overcoming hurdles of Aditi's bullying, we became a trio (as pictured).

A STUDY IN ADI AND IPSITA'S DYNAMIC

Adi calls Ipa her "mom" and tells her that she has to sponsor her lavish lifestyle someday. Adi also likes stealing Ipa away from me and taking pics from my phone in front of me (often times at my own house!!!) without me. And Ipa encourages her behaviour, which is great for Adi. Though, Ipa does tickle Adi when she gets too out of control, so she is a really good person.

Handing over the (metaphorical) mic to Ipa, because she deserves to be heard too!

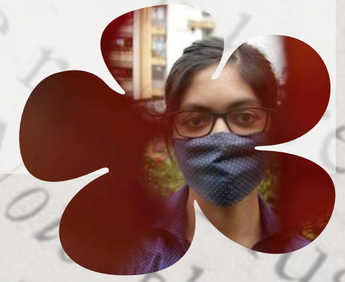
IPA'S FAVOURITE MEMORIES OF ADI

Idk how many memories I have with this adopted child of mine T-T
Starting from our first and last fight during the iconic strawberry strawberry game - and the funniest part? I genuinely don't remember what we were even fighting about. Dramatic for no reason.

Then came our first Halloween - three geniuses painting pumpkins and making cutouts like professionals. Still don't know how that turned out so good, because talent was definitely not involved.

And of course, the Covid era - Aditi turning into a full-time photographer, clicking masked garden pics of us like it was a Vogue cover shoot.

Chaos, confusion, and core memories <3



Once again, wish you a very happy birthday, Aditi!
We love you and miss you so so so much!
